

Darla Jacobson has hope. "Though today I don't understand why, or for what reason I have breast cancer," she said, "I know it has changed my life and its course, and I believe the challenges of it will make my life better." Since dealing with the initial shock of receiving her cancer diagnosis in February 2006, Darla has worked hard to keep a positive attitude and encourages other cancer survivors to do the same. Darla is grateful for the support of friends and family—in particular her husband, Jon, daughter, Cait and her parents. In addition to spending time with them, she loves to read and cook. Darla said, "I live for today and have hope for tomorrow."
