

Kelly Gellerman

Reminding herself, "It's a journey," and "this too shall pass," breast cancer survivor Kelly made these phrases her mantra during treatment. Today, she looks at life and the moments within it differently. "I think people who have gone through a cancer diagnosis will say it does have that benefit."

Having been blessed with amazing friends and family, Kelly says she now has a chance to express her gratitude by participating in the Avera Race

Against Breast Cancer. "I'm really impressed all the money is raised locally from the efforts of so many people - and humbled that I was able to benefit from it all."

SURVIVOR SINCE 2008

Look no further.

