

Laurie Adams

Laurie credits a positive attitude and the support of her husband, Bob, as helping her deal with her breast cancer diagnosis.

"My husband came to every appointment and treatment session," she said. "He did all the daily routines plus raised our then 5-month-old son Jackson."

Today, she participates in the Avera Race

Against Breast Cancer so she can help spread awareness of cancer and be surrounded by others who have traveled the same path as her. Her advice: "Talk to others who have been there and keep a positive attitude!"

SURVIVOR SINCE 2006

Look no further.

