

Nancy Olson

For Nancy, who received her breast cancer diagnosis at the same time her husband was diagnosed with prostate cancer, she decided to not let fear take charge. "Let faith, hope and trust prevail," she says. Daily walks with her husband helped them heal both physically and emotionally and is something they continue to practice today.

"I think the race is a great example of the power of people coming together to support women and families who have experienced breast cancer."

Nancy adds the Avera Race offers a sense of empowerment and is a voice of hope for those who will be diagnosed in the future.

SURVIVOR SINCE 2009

Look no further.

